Welcome to the Yankee Security Convention

The Yankee Security Convention is an internationally recognized event providing educational seminars and a trade show for locksmiths and security professionals. In 1978, Yankee was formed by representatives from the New England region's locksmith associations.

The organization's goal is to provide a local venue to conduct training classes for locksmiths and to showcase the advancement of the trade. For more than 40 years, that goal has not changed.

The volunteer Board of Directors are committed to making the Yankee Security Convention annual event the premier source of industry know-how in the Northeast.

Seminars, Classes, Hands-On Training, Networking and Trade Show

Each year hundreds of locksmiths and security trade professionals from the Northeast and all over the United States attend the Yankee Security Convention to further their knowledge of our ever-evolving trade.

During the convention, Yankee conducts 3 days and evenings of industry-specific educational seminars. Seminars vary from trade basics to advanced topics, highlighting the latest products, techniques, and applications in security.

Drawing from industry leaders, ALOA and other prominent trade organizations, Yankee seeks out the most well-respected and knowledgeable instructors in their areas of expertise. Course materials are shared through lectures, group discussions, and hands-on training.

For those looking for in-depth instruction in a particular area, Yankee offers focused, educational tracks such as Access Control, Automotive, Basic and Mechanical Locksmithing, and Safes. Offering both day and evening classes, there is something for everyone who wants to hone their skills and advance their career.

The show floor provides other avenues to network and learn from industry professionals in our Social Zone and Live Demo Zone. Meanwhile, dedicated show hours on Friday and Saturday provide ample opportunities for peer-to-peer engagement.

Additional events include daily coffee and lunch breaks and don't miss the convention's annual social, or the ever-popular AssaAbloy Locksmith & Distribution party. Check the website for more event details.

Plan ahead with these pre & post show tips!

Prepare Ahead

Exhibitors, make sure you leverage every aspect of the show. Use the venue as a way to meet potential new hires, dealers, and distributors, or set up times to meet with editors of trade magazines to discuss post show opportunities.

Another great way to maximize the show? Use it as a way to train new employees on new products and solutions so they can sell in the future!

Set Booth Guidelines

It should go without saying but meet with your booth team to set rules for working the booth. There is nothing worse than spilling a coffee all over a prospect, so consider making your booth a no eating/drinking zone. You're at the show to conduct business, but attendees need to be valued for their time, so keep cell phone calls to a minimum.

Make sure to have your business cards or a QR code people can scan for more info.

Education First

Almost as much can happen off the trade show floor as it does on it, if you leverage your "downtime" by attending as many educational programs, demonstrations and social events as you can.

Share your experiences and what you've learned with others. This can help build new relationships and strengthen existing ones. Invite everyone you meet off the floor to come see you at your booth.

Show Stopping Follow Up

You might be surprised to hear something Salesforce found out when they surveyed trade show sales: 85% of leads aren't followed up after an event. ATS, Yankee's badge and registration company, offers badge scanning lead retrieval to all exhibitors to make getting contact info easy as pie! Now that you know who stopped by your booth, make sure to follow up! Better yet, pre-show, develop a follow-up plan for post-show!
